Effective 1 March 2019, Conplant will become the Australian distributor for an expanded range of Wacker Neuson compaction equipment.

In a world first which is unique to Australia, Conplant will distribute a comprehensive range of Wacker Neuson branded rollers, manufactured in Germany by Hamm.

The move will see an additional world class compaction equipment brand being distributed by Australia's largest compaction specialist.

Under the agreement with Wacker Neuson, Conplant will also distribute Wacker Neuson's market leading light compaction equipment, excavators, wheel loaders, dumpers, telehandlers and general equipment in Sydney, Brisbane, Perth and other selected geographies throughout New South Wales, Queensland and Western Australia.

As part of its multi-brand strategy, Conplant will expand its new Intelligent Integrated Collision Avoidance System (IICAS) across all of its brands which will become commercially available during 2019.

"We're extremely proud to be in a position to represent such strong brands and high-quality manufacturers. For our customers, it means a larger range and more choice from both a technology and price perspective," said Conplant's Managing Director, Ian Coleman.
